"If motherhood keeps us occupied with the most humbling details of life, it also delivers the most profound insights about the world. For ages, women have been dismissed for "taking things personally"--but maybe that's exactly what we have to do...for ourselves, for our children, for the planet."

– Mary Kay Blakely

MARY KAY BLAKELY joined the Journalism School faculty in September, 1997, and teaches Advanced Writing in the magazine sequence. A contributing editor to Ms. magazine since 1981 and former Hers columnist for The New York Times, she is the author of the critically acclaimed Wake Me When It's Over and American Mom: Motherhood, Politics, and Humble Pie. Her essays on social and political issues have appeared in The New York Times, The Washington Post, Mother Jones, LIFE, Vogue, Family Circle, Self, Parents, Newsday, Los Angeles Times Magazine, Lear's, Glamour, Working Woman as well as other national publications and fourteen collected anthologies.
